PRE-WORK INSTRUCTIONS

Please complete the following pre-work before you attend your first volunteer training session. This pre-work can also be completed online at Texas CASA’s Learning Center at www.learn.texascasa.org.

1. Read pages 8–46, “The CASA Role” through the end of the “Bleux Case File.”
2. Review and think about the Developing Competencies for CASA/GAL Volunteers assessment.
3. Write down any questions you have about the “Child Welfare History” material.
4. Using the Bleux Case File, write a case history in one or two paragraphs.
5. Write down any questions you have about the case.

The CASA Role

A CASA volunteer is a court-appointed, trained and committed adult who ensures that each child's individual needs remain a priority in an overburdened child welfare system. They get to know the child while also gathering information from the child's family, teachers, doctors, therapists, caregivers, and anyone else involved in the child's life in order to make independent and informed recommendations to help the judge decide what's best for the child.

WHO SUPPORTS THE ADVOCATE?

CASA volunteers are paired with a staff professional who supports and guides them every step of the way. This includes preparing for and attending case-related hearings and meetings, and guiding the volunteer to pertinent resources specific to each case. The different CASA programs call this professional by a variety of titles, such as advocate supervisor, advocate coordinator, case supervisor and coach supervisor. When the staff professional who is there to guide them is not available for a meeting or hearing, another CASA staff member might attend to support the volunteer.

Please read your program's Advocate Job Description, provided by your trainer. Below is a general list of duties, but your program's exact requirements take precedence.

Child Welfare History

MARY ELLEN'S STORY

Mary Ellen's case took place in 1874. Her spirit remains with us because her case is generally regarded as the beginning of public concern for the plight of children who have been abused or neglected.

Mary Ellen was a child whose father was dead and whose mother could not care for her because she was destitute and had to work full time. The New York Commission of Charities and Correction placed Mary Ellen with Mary McCormack Connolly and her husband, who were to care for her and report each year on her progress.

Instead, Mrs. Connolly abused her. She beat Mary Ellen, locked her in a room, rarely allowed her outside and did not provide adequate food or clothing.

Upset by the child's screaming, a neighbor told a mission worker about Mary Ellen. The mission worker could find no one to intervene; the police had no grounds because no crime was being committed, and the agencies wouldn't get involved because they did not have legal custody.

The mission worker finally appealed to Henry Bergh, the founder and president of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA). He took up her cause and was able to persuade a judge to hear her case.

Mary Ellen was carried into the courtroom wrapped in a horse blanket. This is what the newspaper reported that she told the judge:

"My father and mother are dead. I don't know how old I am. I call Mrs. Connolly mama. I have never had but one pair of shoes, but I cannot recollect when that was. . . . My bed at night has been only a piece of carpet stretched on the floor underneath a window. Mama has been in the habit of whipping and beating me almost every day. She used to whip me with a twisted whip—a rawhide. [Mama] struck me with the scissors and cut me. . . . I have no recollection of ever having been kissed by anyone—have never been kissed by Mama. Whenever Mama went out I was locked up in the bedroom. I do not want to go back to live with Mama because she beats me so."

Mary Ellen was removed from the people who had mistreated her. Her case stirred public attention, and complaints began to pour in to Henry Bergh. So many cases of child beating and cruelty to children came to light that citizens called a community meeting and formed an association “for the defense of outraged childhood.” That association gave rise to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, which was formally incorporated the year after Mary Ellen’s situation came to light.

CHILD-FOCUSED POLICIES ARE RELATIVELY NEW

- 1899: The country’s first juvenile court, in Chicago, placed dependent and delinquent children in homes for wayward youth or reform schools.
- 1910: X-ray technology was developed, eventually allowing doctors to detect subdural (under the skin) injuries and untreated fractures. This allowed for better identification of cases of child abuse.
- 1938: The Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), which detailed children’s first legal rights, imposed restrictions on working hours and conditions.
- 1962: Dr. C. Henry Kempe created the diagnosis for battered child syndrome.
- 1965: Mandatory reporting laws were in place in all states.
- Beginning in the 1970s, the United States Congress became aware (along with the rest of the nation) that the child welfare system was not adequately protecting children. From a historical perspective, it can be said that we are still relatively new to the concepts of protecting children who’ve been abused or neglected. We are also new to developing appropriate systems, methods, and programs to cope with the problems these families and children face.
- The list on the following pages outlines information about federal child abuse and neglect laws. You do not need to memorize these laws; just become familiar with them.

Federal Child Abuse and Neglect Laws

1974: Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act (CAPTA), Public Law 93-247, amended 1996

Created the National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect and earmarked federal funds for states to establish special programs for child victims of abuse or neglect.

Requires that states:

- Have child abuse and neglect reporting laws.
- Investigate reports of abuse and neglect.
- Educate the public about abuse and neglect.
- Provide a guardian ad litem to every child who has been abused or neglected whose case results in a judicial proceeding.
- Maintain the confidentiality of child protective services records.

1978: Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA), Public Law 95-608

Responded to congressional hearings in the 1970s that revealed pattern of public and private removal of Indian children from their homes, undermining families and threatening tribal survival and Native American cultures. ICWA was designed to implement the federal government's trust responsibility to the nations by protecting and preserving the bond between Indian children and their tribe and culture.

Requires that states:

- Recognize that Indian children have special rights as members of sovereign nations within the United States.
- Set up placement preference schemes for foster care placements and adoptions of children who have been determined to be Indian children.
- Establish the right of certain entities, including the tribe and the Indian custodian, if one exists, to appear as parties to child welfare cases.

- Determine when and if a case should be transferred to tribal court.
- Describe rights of the Indian child and the child's tribe.

CASA/GAL volunteers should:

- Ask whether every child has Native heritage.
- Investigate tribal resources and services that can benefit the child.
- Be aware that jurisdiction can be transferred to the tribal court.
- Pay attention to the heritage and identity needs of the child and be culturally responsive.
- Remember that Adoption and Safe Families Act (ASFA) timelines do not apply to Indian children sovereign nations within the United States.
- Keep in mind that ICWA takes precedence over other federal and state laws.
- Visit the National Indian Child Welfare Association website; it has several excellent packets of ICWA information available for a small charge.

1980: Adoption Assistance and Child Welfare Act, Public Law 96-272

Requires that states:

- Recruit culturally diverse foster and adoptive families.
- Comply with the Indian Child Welfare Act.
- Establish standards for foster family homes and review the standards periodically.
- Set goals and plan for the number of children who will be in foster care for more than 24 months.
- Provide "reasonable efforts" to prevent or eliminate the need for removal of the child from their home or to make it possible for the child to return to their home.
- Have a data collection and reporting system about the children in care.

Federal Child Abuse and Neglect Laws

CASA/GAL volunteers should:

- Consider possible placements that respect a child's cultural heritage but do not limit their options.
- Become familiar with IMPACT, the data collection system used by DFPS to document all stages of service of a case, including when someone reports abuse, neglect, or exploitation and when those cases are investigated.

1990: Indian Child Protection and Family Violence Prevention Act

- Establishes federal requirements for the reporting and investigation of child abuse and neglect on tribal lands.
- Requires background checks on individuals who have contact with Indian children (including foster and adoptive families).
- Authorizes funding for tribal child abuse prevention and treatment programs.

1993: Court Improvement Legislation

- Encourages reform in the court system.

1994: Multi-Ethnic Placement Act (MEPA)

- Prevents discrimination on the basis of race, color or national origin in the placement of children and in the selection of foster and adoptive placements.
- Facilitates the development of a diverse pool of foster and adoptive families.
- Decreases the time children wait to be adopted.

1996: Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act (CAPTA) Amended

- Amended to include Court Appointed Special Advocates as guardian ad litem.

1997: Adoption and Safe Families Act (ASFA), Public Law 105-89

This act embodies three key principles:

- The safety of children is the paramount concern.
- Foster care is a temporary setting and not a place for children to grow up.
- Permanency planning should begin as soon as the child enters foster care.

This act directs timelines within which the child welfare system operates:

- Requires a permanency plan within 12 months.
- Requires a dispositional hearing within 12 months of placement.
- Requires court reviews every six months.

1997: Volunteer Protection Act

- Limits liability of volunteers.

1999: Foster Care Independence Act

- Addresses needs of older youth in foster care, particularly those aging out of the system.

This act does the following:

- Allows states to serve youth up to age 21 regardless of whether or not they are eligible for the Title IV-E Foster Care Program.
- Increases federal funding to assist and serve young people transitioning from foster care.
- Establishes the John H. Chafee Foster Care Independence Program, which strongly supports the dependency system's capacity to help youth make a healthy transition into adulthood (see information on the next page).
- Allows states to provide Medicaid to young people between the ages of 18 and 21 who were in foster care on their 18th birthday.

Federal Child Abuse and Neglect Laws

- Increases the youth-assets limit from $1,000 to $10,000 without jeopardizing the youth's eligibility for Title IV-E-funded foster care.
- Ensures that foster parents have adequate preparation to care for the children placed in their home. This provision can be used to strengthen the preparation of foster parents to care for adolescents.
- Provides additional funding for adoption incentive payments.
- Mandates that states use a portion (up to 30 percent) of their independent living program funds to provide room and board for youth 18 to 21 who have left foster care.

The John H. Chafee Foster Care Independence Program does the following:

- States explicitly that "enrollment in Independent Living Programs can occur concurrently with continued efforts to locate and achieve placement in adoptive families for older children in foster care," thereby clarifying that independent living services should not be seen as an alternative to adoption for teens.
- Requires states to train both foster and adoptive parents (as well as group-care workers and case managers) about the issues confronting adolescents preparing for independent living.
- Reinforces the importance of providing personal and emotional support for children aging out of foster care, through the promotion of interactions with dedicated adults.
- Specifies that independent living services may be provided to young people at "various ages" and various stages of achieving independence, "including children waiting for adoption or other permanent options".

Other Laws That Affect CASA/GAL Volunteer Work

- The Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA) requires, among other things, permission or a court order to access “protected health information” for any individual. Your program will have information on how to access health records.
- Special Immigrant Juvenile Status (SIJS) assists some children, including those in foster care, in obtaining legal permanent residency.
- Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act says that any entity that receives federal funds must provide a professional interpreter in court.
- Titles IV-B and IV-E of the Social Security Act:
  - IV-E is the primary federal funding stream that partially reimburses states for foster care for qualified children.
  - IV-B allots funding for targeted case management services.
  - The state must pay all expenses for a child who is not IV-E eligible for out of state general revenues. These expenses include foster care and therapy.
- The Victims of Child Abuse Act of 1990 (VOCAA) protects the privacy rights of child victims or witnesses during the investigation or prosecution of a federal crime.

These meetings are held at least annually for all children in CPS custody (TMC or PMC – Permanent Managing Conservatorship) age 16 and over. The youth may invite anyone they wish to be there, and the goal is for trusted adults to assist the youth in developing plans as they approach adulthood. These meetings are run by a CPS facilitator and will include the youth’s Preparation for Adult Living (PAL) worker from CPS, who will also provide the youth with information on the benefits available to them as a teen in care.

FGC – Family Group Conference; a meeting in which the child and family meet with relatives, friends, CPS supervisors and caseworkers, service providers, CASA, and support persons in the community to develop a plan to ensure that the child is cared for and protected from future harm. These meetings are generally two to three hours, but are sometimes longer. The idea is to bring together all of the parties and all important family members – grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins and any symbolic relatives – to support the family and figure out how they can work toward the permanency goal. Like permanency conferences, a convener from CPS facilitates FGCs. These are typically positive meetings, focusing on the hopes, dreams, strengths, and support network of the family. The reasons for removal are discussed, and the family has a chance to explore and discuss solutions on their own.

FH – Foster Home

Final Orders – The court must enter a final order before the first Monday after the first anniversary of the order appointing CPS as temporary managing conservator, unless the court has granted an extension. A final order is one that:

- Requires the child be returned to the parents
- Names a relative or another person as the child’s managing conservator
- Without terminating the parent-child relationship, appoints CPS as the managing conservator of the child, or
- Terminates the parent-child relationship and appoints a relative, another suitable person, or CPS as the managing conservator.

FTT – Failure to Thrive; when a child under 2 years of age has a weight or rate of weight gain significantly below that of other children of similar age.

Mediation – A meeting between the child’s parents, the parents’ attorneys, CPS, the child’s attorney, and CASA to reach an agreement regarding permanency instead of going to trial. These all-day meetings are designed to find a permanent legal solution to which all parties can agree. They take place toward the end of a case, usually when reunification is unlikely and an alternate legal outcome is needed. This may be a time when parents recognize that they are unlikely to have their children returned, but that they can avoid a trial by agreeing to some terms. For example, they may agree to relinquish parental rights if the children will be adopted by a specific relative. They are facilitated by licensed mediators, and all conversations during mediation are confidential. Unless pre-authorized, only legal parties to the case may attend.

Medical Neglect – The failure of the person responsible for the child’s welfare to meet their medical needs

PCs are meetings for all parties on the case to come together and discuss the history and permanency plans. The child’s placement may be present for this meeting, as well. A convener will run the meeting and make sure everything is covered. Everyone will receive a copy of what was discussed. This can be particularly helpful to make sure everyone knows where the parents are on their services and how they can move forward.

Permanency – The goal of the CPS program is to provide permanence (i.e., a permanent home) for a child who’s been removed from home and placed in substitute care by resolving family dysfunction and returning the child to the family. The court can give PMC to someone other than a parent, including CPS, a relative, a close family friend or a foster parent. This can happen with or without the termination of parental rights.

PO – Parole Officer

Possessory Conservator – A possessory conservator typically still has parental rights, but will not have the final say on most decisions.

Presentation Staffing – This meeting, part of the adoption process, is when CASA can talk directly with a family who has been selected to adopt a child to make sure that the family has a very clear idea of what to expect. Selection Staffing – This meeting, part of the adoption process, is to assess home studies on potential adoptive families. By the end of the meeting, there is often a plan on how to move forward.

Service Plan – Developed initially 30–45 days after a child’s removal from home and reviewed in preparation for hearings, the service plan is developed by everyone involved in the case, including CASA. The goal of the service plan is to secure permanency for the child through one of these ways:

- Termination of parents’ rights to the child
- Placement of child with relatives
- Placement of child in foster care, or
- Adoptive placement

Show Cause (262 Hearing) – This hearing will happen about two weeks after the ex parte hearing. The name refers to the chapter of the Texas Family Code that requires a hearing in which the parents are present and can answer the allegations of abuse and neglect. CPS can start the service plan at this time to show the parents what they can complete for the case to move toward reunification. If CASA was appointed ex parte, CASA will be present at this hearing.

SSI – Supplemental Security Income; a federal program providing income for basic needs for the elderly and people with disabilities

Case History
May 19: CPS received a referral from the hospital regarding a 2-month-old child who appeared to show symptoms of shaken baby syndrome. Child, Deshawn Bleux, was admitted to the hospital by father, Miles Bleux. In speaking with this social worker (SW), father said he took child to hospital when he could not be woken up for his regular 10 p.m. feeding. SW spoke with Dr. Maronian, who said child suffered a concussion and will be kept overnight for observation. May 21: Child remains in the hospital with an injury more severe than previously thought; due to the child’s young age, doctors have said they would like a few additional days of tests and observations before releasing him. Child will be placed in foster home pending CPS investigation. Criminal charges are also pending against the parents, but because various people have various versions of the story, police have not determined who, if anyone, should be charged. SW attempted to speak with each parent (mother, Antoinette Bleux; father, Miles Bleux), but they refused to be interviewed on the advice of counsel.

She has refused to say anything other than she was not home at the time of the incident. ## INCIDENT REPORT SUPPLEMENT CITY POLICE

1. OFFENSE Child Battery	2. CLASSIFICATION Simple	3. DATE/TIME OF REPORT Thursday 01:10 hrs
4. VICTIM (LAST, FIRST, M) Bleux, Deshawn Lee	5. ADDRESS 740 Center St., Apt. 204

Synopsis:

The following report contains information concerning child battery. Hospital emergency room reported possible child battery due to shaken baby syndrome.

Victim Info:

Deshawn Lee Bleux B/M/2 months 740 Center St., Apt. 204

Suspect Info:

Miles Bleux, father of victim (same address)

Investigation Notes:

We were dispatched to the hospital on a child battery call. Emergency room physician Dr. Saul Maronian informed us that the victim was brought to the hospital by his parents. Victim was unconscious with shallow breathing. Upon examination, retinal hemorrhages were found, indicating possible shaken baby syndrome. Victim was taken for whole body CT scan and MRI, which revealed minor swelling of the brain and a subdural hematoma but no other injury and no signs of previous injury. Oxygen therapy has been started. Infant expected to be hospitalized for one or two days. CPS called.

Dr. Maronian informed us that while victim was being scanned, mother became very upset. When he gave parents the diagnosis, mother screamed, "You bastard, how could you!" and began punching father. Father repeated, "I didn't do anything," while fending off mother. Dr. Maronian observed that mother is physically smaller, and although father appeared angry, he merely tried to block her blows. Hospital security separated them.

Hospital will provide photographs and scans of victim's injuries.

Bleux Case File

Incident Report continued

We next spoke with mother, Antoinette Lee Bleux, 18, same address as victim and suspect. It appeared that Mrs. Bleux had been crying. Mrs. Bleux informed us that she was out with friends and returned home at approx. 21:30 and went straight to bed. She reports baby was sleeping in crib at that time and that husband later woke her in a panic because baby would not wake up. They brought the baby in and have since learned that he is stable and not in grave danger. She admitted to hitting her husband and screaming at him in the emergency room. "I just lost it. I'm sorry I acted like that." Mother expressed strong need to see child. Nurse escorted mother to infant's bedside for a short visit. Antoinette Bleux was released to her sister—they left the hospital together.

END OF PRE-WORK FOR CHAPTER 1

The Four Key Components of the CASA/GAL Volunteer Role

INVESTIGATION

Gather information to carry out an objective examination of the situation including getting to know the child(ren) and their families. This includes developing an understanding of the needs of the child(ren), the relationships that the child(ren) have with family members and fictive kin, the history of the child(ren) and their family, the family environment and cultural norms, and the existing or potential support system.

This information is gathered through regular visits in the placement (and elsewhere), plus conversations, research, and observations with the child(ren), their parents, relatives, fictive kin, teachers, doctors, therapists, caregivers, service providers, daycare workers, CPS caseworkers, the attorney ad litem, and anyone else who has knowledge of the child(ren) or the family. This is not an investigation of the abuse or neglect that started the case. Investigators with CPS have already completed that.

FACILITATION

Identify resources and services for the child(ren) and their family, and facilitate a collaborative relationship between all parties involved in the case, helping to create a situation in which the child(ren)'s needs can be met. Ensure that any information that you obtain during your investigation reaches the parties that need that information. For example, if you are told that your child is failing math during a conversation with the child's teacher, do not assume that the CPS caseworker has that information. Make sure to give that information to anyone who needs it.

ADVOCACY

Speak up for the child(ren) by making fact-based recommendations regarding the child(ren)'s best interest in a written court report and verbally during hearings. Understand that, although court is a very important part of CASA's advocacy, it is not the only place advocacy occurs.

The Four Key Components of the CASA/GAL Volunteer Role

The majority of our advocacy actually occurs outside of the courtroom during meetings and conversations with the parties on the case. If you see a need that is not being met for your child(ren), you should discuss it with your supervisor and bring it up to the parties immediately. Do not wait for court to be the child(ren)'s advocate.

MONITORING

Visit the child(ren) in their placements regularly to ensure their safety and assess their needs. Keep track of whether the orders of the court and the plans of the CPS services agency are carried out, and report to the court or the CPS caseworkers when any of these parties do not follow those orders and plans.

FBSS/COURT-ORDERED SERVICES HEARINGS

Chapter 264 or COS Review

Court-ordered services cases have review hearings around every three to four months. There is not a legal deadline for these cases. The focus is on both the children and the parents. CASA is expected to have a report and be present at the hearing to provide recommendations.

TEMPORARY MANAGING CONSERVATORSHIP HEARINGS

Ex Parte Hearing

Once a child is removed from a home, the case will need to be before a judge within 72 hours. Usually, only CPS is present at that point, so the hearing is called ex parte, meaning all parties are not present. This is when the attorney ad litem is generally appointed and often when CASA is appointed. CASA is not normally involved in a case at this point.

262 Hearing (Show Cause)

This hearing will happen about two weeks after the ex parte hearing. The name refers to the chapter of the Texas Family Code that requires a hearing in which the parents are present and can answer the allegations of abuse and neglect. CPS can start the service plan at this time to show the parents what they can complete for the case to move toward reunification. If CASA was appointed ex parte, CASA will be present at this hearing.

Status Hearing

This hearing takes place two months after the 262. This hearing will solidify the service plan and clarify what the parents need to be doing and address the services the children may need. CASA is expected to have a report and be present at the hearing to make recommendations.

First Permanency Hearing

This hearing takes place at six months from the beginning of the case. This is the approximate halfway point, and the judge wants to know where the case is going and how to get there. It is important to make sure all original concerns are addressed and there is a strong permanency plan and a strong concurrent plan. CASA is expected to have a report and be present at the hearing to make recommendations.

Second Permanency Hearing

Generally, four months after first permanency, there is another hearing to make sure everything is still on the right track. At this hearing, the judge wants to see the permanency plan being put into action. If the parents aren't working toward reunification, mediation and merits are generally requested. If the parents are doing well, discussion begins about the reunification plan and the possibility of return and monitoring. CASA is expected to have a report and be present at the hearing to make recommendations.

Third Permanency Hearing

Each case is different, and some do achieve legal permanency before this stage and therefore do not require a Third Permanency Hearing. At this point, the one-year time frame is nearly over and the court is moving toward permanency. In rare cases, a six-month extension can be requested. CASA is expected to have a report and be present at the hearing to make recommendations.

PERMANENT MANAGING CONSERVATORSHIP HEARINGS

Permanency Hearings After Final Orders

If the child stays in the Permanent Managing Conservatorship of CPS, there will be regular hearings approximately every four months. These hearings focus on the well-being of the child, school and medical needs, and the adoption process, if applicable. CASA is expected to have a report and be present at the hearing to make recommendations.

OTHER HEARINGS

Contested Placement Hearing

This hearing will be called if there is disagreement about a child's placement. CASA will be expected to have an opinion about the best interest, and a court report may be needed if applicable and appropriate.

Special Hearing or Motion for Further Orders

All parties, including CASA, have the ability to set a hearing. This can be done for any reason, and CASA is expected to attend any hearing that is set. CASA will be given notice of at least three business days. CASA will often receive a motion from the attorney setting the hearing explaining the nature of the hearing. A court report may be needed if applicable and appropriate.

The Roles in a Child Welfare Court Case

CHILD

Why is the child's case in court?

- A petition has been filed alleging abuse or neglect.

What does the child need during court intervention?

- The child needs the court to order an appropriate intervention and treatment plan so they can live in a safe, stable home without ongoing need for intervention from the child protection agency.
- The child needs the court to address the areas of safety and protection, placement if the child is out of the home, family contact, belonging to a family, financial support, a support system, education, and mental and physical health.
- The child needs the court intervention to be focused and timely.
- The child needs services provided that will meet their needs.

CASA VOLUNTEER/GUARDIAN AD LITEM

- An interest in improving the life of the child through the court process.

What does the attorney for the child bring to the case?

When is the attorney for the child involved in the case?

What is the difference between the attorney ad litem and the CASA volunteer's role as the guardian ad litem?

- The attorney ad litem represents the child's wants, while the CASA volunteer/guardian ad litem represents what is in the child's best interest or what they need. For example, if a child tells their attorney they want to eat ice cream for every meal every day, the attorney has to represent that to the court. The CASA volunteer can then tell the court that the child needs to have a well-rounded diet, not entirely featuring ice cream, because they are representing the child's best interest. So keep that in mind: what the child wants may not always be in their best interest, and that is the CASA volunteer's job to represent.

  - They have developed an intervention plan with the family, which has not resulted in eliminating the risk that child maltreatment will recur, or
  - Due to risk of imminent danger, they have removed the child from their home to ensure the child's safety.
- The caseworker petitions the court to order that the agency's intervention and treatment plan be followed by the parents and other service providers, thereby ensuring the child receives proper care and protection without requiring continuous agency intervention.
