WHAT PERSONAL INFORMATION DO WE COLLECT?

The Texas CASA membership organization, together with its local CASA members, supports and promotes court-appointed volunteer advocacy for children who have been abused and neglected so that they can thrive during and after their time in care. In order to further this mission, Texas CASA may collect certain information from you through the Sites, including personal information (i.e., individual information that may be used to personally identify or contact you). Collection is done both actively (information you voluntarily submit to us) and passively (information automatically gathered from your computer).

ACTIVE COLLECTION

At several places on our Site, we collect certain information you voluntarily provide to us which may contain personally identifiable information. For example, if you make a donation, become a member, join our email list, fill out a form or register for an event through the site, we may collect your name, address, phone and email. You may also provide us with credit card information for payment of purchases, donations, event registration, membership fees or other fees collected by Texas CASA. However, credit card information is only used to process the transaction. In addition, from time to time our Sites may request information as part of surveys or contests or in connection with grant applications and reporting. If you send us an email request or participate in our forums, we may store that information as well.

PASSIVE COLLECTION

1. Cookies. A cookie is a piece of data stored on the user's hard drive containing information about the user. If you wish to block, erase, or be warned of cookies, please refer to your browser instructions or help screen to learn about these functions. If a user rejects a cookie, they may still use our Site, however they will be limited in some of its areas.
